CONSENT FOR TELEHEALTH

Telehealth involves the use of electronic communications to enable health care providers at different locations to share individual patient medical information for the purpose of improving patient care. The information may be used for diagnosis, therapy, follow-up, and/or education.

The electronic systems used for telehealth will incorporate network and software security protocols to protect patient privacy and will include measures to safeguard the data and to ensure its integrity against intentional or unintentional corruption.

Expected Benefits: Telehealth offers improved access to medical care by enabling patients to remain in their home or secure location while a healthcare provider at an alternate location provides non-emergency medical evaluation, non-crisis care, treatment recommendations, medication management, and individual or family psychotherapy sessions.

Potential Risks: As with any behavioral health evaluation, there are potential risks associated with the use of telehealth. These risks include, but may not be limited to:

- In rare cases, information transmitted may not be sufficient (e.g. poor resolution of images) to allow for appropriate medical decision making by the healthcare provider and consultant(s).
- Delays in medical evaluation and treatment could occur due to deficiencies or failures of the equipment.
- In very rare instances, security protocols could fail, causing a breach of privacy of personal medical information.
- In rare cases, a lack of access to complete medical records may result in adverse drug interactions or allergic reactions, or other judgment errors.

By signing this form, I understand the following:

1. I understand that the laws that protect privacy and the confidentiality of medical information also apply to telehealth, and that no information obtained in the use of telehealth which identifies me will be disclosed to researchers or other entities without my consent.
2. I understand that I have the right to withhold or withdraw my consent to the use of telehealth in the course of my care at any time, without affecting my right to future care or treatment.
3. I understand that a variety of alternative methods of medical care may be available to me, and that I may choose one or more of these at any time. My provider has explained the alternatives to my satisfaction.
4. I understand that telehealth may involve electronic communication of my personal medical information to other medical providers who may be located in other areas.
5. I understand that it is my duty to inform my provider of electronic interactions regarding my care that I may have with other healthcare providers.

TEXAS BEHAVIORAL HEALTH SYSTEMS, PLLC

6. I understand that I may expect the anticipated benefits from the use of telehealth in my care, but that no results can be guaranteed or assured.

By signing below I am agreeing that I have read, understand and agree to the items contained in this document.

Information Regarding Controlled Substances: The purpose of this information is to create an understanding regarding controlled substances. Please initial each line to indicate understanding:

_____ The goal of treatment is to reduce symptoms to a bearable level to improve the quality of my life. I understand that in many cases, symptoms may not be completely eliminated. Increasing doses may not always help, and in some cases may cause further complications.

_____ Use of illegal substances, alcohol and combinations of other mood-altering drugs, including prescription medications, can lead to dangerous side effects, including respiratory depression and death.

_____ Prolonged use of controlled medications may be associated with serious health risks that will be discussed by my provider, including dependence on or addiction to these medications.

_____ The risk of abruptly stopping a controlled medication may cause complications. If I need to stop this medication, I must do under the advice of my provider.

_____ Stimulant medications, such as Adderall, Ritalin, Vyvanse, etc... are known to have an effect on the cardiovascular system. Your provider may periodically monitor your vital signs. If your provider has concerns about your blood pressure or pulse, clearance by a primary care provider or cardiology may be required.

_____ It is not advisable to combine stimulant medications with some medications, caffeine or energy drinks

_____ Stimulants can cause other side effects such as heart palpitations, chest pain, blurred vision, syncope (fainting), activation of mania or psychosis, insomnia, increasing agitation/anxiety, seizure activity, weight loss, intolerable nausea or headache. Please notify your provider immediately if you experience any of these side effects or proceed to the nearest hospital emergency room for unrelieved chest pain.

_____ I am responsible for my medications. I will not share, sell, or trade my medication. I will not take anyone else's medication. Federal, state and local laws prohibit these actions.

_____ I will not increase my medication dose unless approved by the prescribing provider.

_____ I will keep my medications in a secure place. My medicine may not be replaced if it is lost, stolen or used sooner than prescribed.

_____ My provider may order a blood, urine, or saliva sample to test for medications or drug use.

_____ I must use extreme caution regarding driving or operating heavy machinery when taking these medications as side effects can include drowsiness or a change in mental abilities, thereby making it unsafe to do so.

_____ I agree that drinking any amount of alcohol while I am receiving DEA controlled medication, especially benzodiazepines, could suppress my breathing, especially while sleeping, and result in death due to respiratory failure.

_____ I understand that if I become pregnant while taking these medications, my child may be born dependent on the medication and other health risks to my child may exist. It is not advisable to take controlled substances while pregnant. I will contact my provider immediately if I become pregnant.

_____ If I see another provider who gives me a controlled substance medicine (for example, a dentist, doctor from an Emergency Room or hospital, etc.), I must notify your office immediately.

_____ I understand that my medications may be changed or stopped at any point in my treatment at my provider's discretion.

The “Off-Label” Use of Medication

There are times we prescribe medications which are not labeled specifically for usage in a particular condition. This is because the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) indications for any given drug is based on their review and acceptance of studies which have been submitted to them for usage in a specific diagnosis, rather than symptoms. Medications treat symptoms, not diagnoses. There are times when a medication is found to be useful for one symptom or disorder, but clinical experience reveals that it is also useful in other areas. When this occurs, pharmaceutical companies occasionally conduct new medication trials and seek additional FDA approval. This pursuit of “indication for use” from the FDA is a business decision that many pharmaceutical companies decide not to make because of the extremely high cost of medication research and testing and the fact that the medication has already received approval for prescribing. Most pharmaceutical companies decide to rely upon doctors learning of these additional uses through articles published in medical journals, professional educational forums, and collegial networking. The usage of medications without FDA indication for a certain condition is referred to as “off label” use.

There are special circumstances in regard to children. Most of all the medications that child psychiatrists, pediatric neurologists, and pediatricians use are used “off label.” Considering the complications of testing medication on children (a child cannot sign a waiver stating that he/she understands the risks of being involved in medication research), there are very few medications that are “approved” by the FDA for children. An example of an “off label” use of medication with which you might be acquainted would be amoxicillin. Amoxicillin was widely used with adults and its success in treating infection led to its almost immediate embrace by pediatricians. Because it was already being used with children, the manufacturer never sought an approved indication and to this day, amoxicillin is not “approved” by the FDA for use in children, although its use is nearly universal.

It is important for you to understand that the medication we recommend and prescribe have been shown to be helpful in the hands of many physicians. We want you to be informed of the possible benefits and side effects of these medications and encourage you to read all you can and ask questions that you have. We are committed to pursuing a plan of action which leads to the lowest dosage of medication and the smallest number of medications used, consistent with optimal level of wellness. Our goal for the medication we prescribe is to treat and reverse as many symptoms as possible while pursuing additional non=-medication strategies. Counseling and lifestyle changes can further add to the recovery from the presenting symptoms in the short-term. This will also enable the medication itself to work more effectively and may, in the long run, possibly negate the need for some or all of the medications originally prescribed.

Please feel free to express any concerns or questions you may have during your visit. We endeavor to provide you all the information we can in order to help you make informed decisions concerning you or your child’s care.
